3.0 Graduate Attributes

3.1 Leadership and teamworking skills

The camp was operated fully within our group. The activities were all done by our group so we need to be comfortable with all members. Without good leadership and teamworking skills, the activities will be detrimental to the process of the whole camp. It also required good volunteerism by us since the facilitator loves to ask for representative to voice out thoughts. Since all my group members were all stranger to me, it taught me to develop a teamworking skills in such short time and had given me good impressions on people since then.

3.2 Communication skills

Since the camp involved a lot of participants, we needed good interaction with each people. This was when communication skills came in handy. Communication skills were a vital trait since we made all activities with group members. It also encouraged me to strengthen my communication with stranger people because I was awkward with distant people.

3.3 Global citizen

Advocacy of global citizenship was also recognized in the camp because it involved a lot of discussions and speeches about global change. The organizer talked about topics like freedom of speech and decision-making rights. Global citizenship was also related with the practice of Islam so it will not violate the thinking of youths nowadays.
