CGMA Interactive Day 2019

CGMA Interactive Day (CID) is an event held by the Computer Graphics Multimedia Association (CGMA) on every year. This event aims to welcome the first-year student of each year to the CGMA community in UTM. CID 2019 was held on 12th October 2019 at L01, Dewan Sri Merbau KTHO. Since I am the first-year student in 2019, I joined the event as one of the participants. This program was carried out by the seniors from 8am up until 11pm. This event was necessary to make sure the new members of the CGMA committee took their part on participating and get to know each other as well as creating bonding among each other. There were many activities provided that helps us on enjoying and gaining a lot of positive things.

Graduate Attributes

1. Communication skills

I was able to socialize with many people thanks to the program that encourage us to get to know with each other. The program also provides a lot of group activities to make sure all of us communicate well in order to understand each other better. This helps on building the skills of communication to be used in any type of situation or environment even with people that is new to us.

2. Leadership and Teamworking Skills

Most of the activity held in the program were grouping activities. As a result of that, I was able to build a great bond and chemistry with my group. I learned on how to handle the task given as a team. It is easier when we were able to understand and came up with a good solution which helps making things easier for all of us. I was also able to lead my group for some activities and we end up working together as planned.

3. Adaptability

As a first-year student and new committee member of CGMA, it was a new environment for me. However, within the day of the program I was able to get used to it. I was able make friends and also get to know with other member especially the seniors. This is very important skills to encourage myself to open up with people whenever it is needed.
