4.0 MINI REPORT

The main purpose of this program was to introduce and help the participants to acknowledge the life of employment. The speaker of this webinar also introduced three meaningful works of literature related with employment, which were Pekerjaan Dan Perusahaan Menurut Islam by Mustafa Daud, Hubungan Majikan Pekerja Menurut Islam by Hakim Mohammad Said, and The Daily Drucker: 366 Days of Insight and Motivation for Getting the Right Things Done by Peter F. Drucker. The works of literature were reviewed and used as representative cases to explain the meaning of employment.

During the program, the speaker helped the participants to understand the meaning of employment and the rights of the employers and the employee through the perspective of the Islamic religion. The topics stated above were explained in detail by referring to and comparing the different perspectives given by the authors from the works of literature stated above. In The Daily Drucker literature, the speaker had shared with us two interesting points from the literature which the employees need to learn to manage the boss and manage themselves wisely at work.

The main speaker of this webinar was Prof. Dr. Durrishah Idrus from PERDANA Centre, Fakulti Teknologi dan Informatik Razak (FTIR), University Technology Malaysia. The speaker was very interactive during the works of literature introduction by encouraging the participants to share their opinions on the points given by the authors on the topics of employment. The speaker also shared many formative and useful opinions regarding employment based on personal experiences during the webinar.

5.0 SELF REFLECTION

From this webinar, I now gained much formative and useful information regarding the life of employment. I had now interested in the works of literature recommended in the webinar and wish to read them in a new future. Having extra-curricular knowledge is important in allowing me to prepare myself as a future employee to collaborating and communicating with future colleagues and employers.

The merit of this webinar was the speaker used various presentation skills during his presentation. The points stated in the webinar were presented interestingly and clearly by the speaker by changing his tone of speech every now and then to help the participants indulge in the presentation. The presentation slide used in the webinar was created in a simple and interesting way by having the main points highlighted with different colours and adding various pictures as examples which help the participants to easily understand the points given.

Since the webinar was held virtually, there were some difficulties that I faced related to the program. One of the difficulties faced was due to the network problems, some lagging occurred during the presentation which cause some important information to be missed. Other than that, many valuable questions were missed during the Q&A section as the questions asked by the participants were overlapped by others' comments. Which increases the difficulties of the host to search for the questions one by one and direct them to the speaker.
