REPORTING

Jawatankuasa Mahasiswa (JKM) Kolej Tun Dr Ismail (KTDI) has successfully arranged programs known as all sorts of themes and events. Open Day Resak 2019 or better known as OPERA'19 has a number of events that have been planned to draw the attention of all KTDI students. This program is being conducted at Dataran Resak, KTDI. The purpose of this program is to engage all UTM students, especially the one who stay at KTDI participating in all sorts of events arranged by KTDI in order to strengthen the interaction between new students. Various competitions are held for three days, including scheduled games and competitions such as football, badminton and basketball, there are also talented night competitions where they can show their talents, entertaining experiences such as haunted houses and movie nights, and there is also entrepreneurship where students or outsiders can do business at the festival. The program was very vibrant and a lot of people were involved.

RESPONDING

OPERA'19 took place when I was a first year undergraduate, so this is my first time participating in the event. It was a new opportunity for me because of my college events, so I was able to get down and be able to take part in activities easily. This is a really big event and I wonder how they are all trying to come up with the concepts and ideas. I feel motivated and I want to become one of the crew to coordinate and make the program successful. I have the ambition that one day I will aspire to be part of them and experience all of this myself as one of my lessons as a student here. I assume that all the qualities such as teamwork, to accomplish the same goals in order to make this program a success. Moreover, teamwork is more efficient and can perform projects more efficiently, since different minds are intertwined with the same goals and objectives. Moreover, from what I noticed, my question is how they communicate with others to make the event a success, they need to call not even just the engineering faculty but all the faculties in the university to take part in the event. Interaction and organisational capabilities play a significant role in this division. The publicity of the unit plays part in raising visibility through the internet by publishing news about the program. So they are going to spread through all the emails, whatsapp groups, and they are going to post on the night market so that people know about the time and date of our program. I was impressed with the unit's publicity and how confident they were approaching people.

RELATING

Next is about what happens in a program that can be linked to my experiences is about competition! As I walked to the hall, I saw a beyblade match and tried to watch the event. It was interesting to see children and adults competing with each other. It's a reminder of my family. Just as in our case when we have a family reunion, there are going to be a lot of events, they will chat, play video games, uno cards and monopoly. What I gained from this scenario is that any match must have been lost and won, and we must give our best in the competition and help each other, whether we win or lose. This is part of the experience. Moving on to the next competitions, at the talent night competition there are too many people coming to watch the performance. All the participants gathered their strength to show off their skills in good spirit, this was a really competitive night and I personally enjoyed all the performances. Their natural talents have guided me to portray their performances. One of my friends did the opening events, his engrossing voice made all the audience shiver. Those times reminded me of my college days when my peers gather for our dinner night. I am never tired of hearing his gentle voice with the sound of a guitar. The songs he sang touched my heart. However, I personally applaud the talent and determination of the contestants to do their best when competing on stage, and I hope that one day I have all the confidence to talk on the stage. Last but not least, there's a night movie session before we finish the night. We enjoyed watching this movie not just with our close friends but also with everyone at KTDI who took part in this session. The movie we watched was a Korean movie named Train to Busan. We watched as I enjoyed the food sold there one of my favourites was keropok lekor. There are a lot of tasty dishes that make us want to try all the dishes. JKM KTDI has also opened a shop selling 'Oden' and ABC to interact and spend time with people. It's pretty good to let go of the tension while having fun with friends on the weekends without worrying about the assignment.

REASONING

The next day was a volleyball tournament, and the competition was fierce. My friends and I have gone to watch and support our friends who have taken part in this competition. Watching them play cheerfully made me want to participate, sadly I did not know how to play. Teamwork between teams to score goals and win matches is something we are very pleased to see. However, I am trying to develop myself to be more productive in sports. I agreed that a balanced body can always lead to the healthy mind. The studies indicate that sports can have a positive impact on boosting energy, enhancing mood and increasing motivation and efficiency in the work environment, so I try to exercise by starting jogging and walking every evening after class. Moreover, as a student, I personally consider leadership skills to be very necessary for any university student to experience leadership opportunities and abilities, learn the art of team building and be able to guide colleagues, determine identity and accomplish tasks effectively. It also offers an opportunity to learn how to understand and demonstrate effective communication and interpersonal skills. The most significant result for me is that everyone is trying to be a volunteer to be a community leader. I wonder how someone is trying to lead a party with a different personality. Apart from that, they need to worry about all the strategies and final actions taken by the team leader. I have to think it's okay to try to develop leadership skills by attempting to be a group leader in the work of a group to do a task and assignment assigned to us by a lecturer. In this way, I will improve my awareness to handle the people under me carefully, even though it's pretty hard to manage people. And with all my experience, I am going to lead and help those who need me. To be honest, it was a little complicated, but the more I became the leader I saw, the more I began to adapt myself to leadership. Of course, with this reasoning, I was able to develop these techniques and understandings to others, including close friends or even new members and to inform them of efficiency abilities that could help me in the future.

RECONSTRUCTING

In conclusion, I will gather all the work I have completed throughout this program that has a significant impact on the development of graduate attributes. To rebuild my perception of this program in the near future differently, many things I have seen and learned from this event. I only do a few activities but I learn a lot. First of all, about the responsibility of being a crew to ensure all activities are successful. Moreover, to deal with all those activities is indeed very tiring when there are many activities especially in three days, a sleepless night is a must to prepare everything for the next day. I really like and want to experience being a crew of any program so that it can be a very useful experience that I can reflect on myself. Responsible, productive and get teamwork as well as make new friends while enjoying this time. Sure enough it will be fun and memorable. For teamwork for sports activities, I strive to be active in any sport. Yes, I used to jog and walk, but now I try to get involved in badminton. I want to always be active in sports because I take care of my health for the future. Moreover, communication and involvement in the people involved in the program. We interacted with new people in three days, seeing someone we had never met before from someone else's course, I wanted to know more people to learn more from them. I believe everyone has their own abilities that I can learn from them. Three days of the program has given me a lot of things, programs like this should be extended and can be done again for us as students to learn and activate ourselves in various activities organized.
