OVERALL REFLECTION ON UHMT 1012

Name : Shahril Bin Saiful Bahri

Subject : UHMT 1012 Graduate Success Attribute

Lecturer Name : Dr. Marlina Ali

Date : 22 January 2020

First of all I would like to say thank you to Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM) for accepting as one of many as their student. This also goes towards my lecturer for this subject, Dr. Marlina, as she is the one who carried us during this pandemic with the online classes which is the first time that I experience it. Thirdly I also want to say thank you to all my teammates that help me during the group project that we did during this semester. I couldn't thank you enough for every sacrifice that they had to go through to get through this semester. Lastly, I would want to say congratulation to myself because I am able to handle this semester until the end with valiant effort and with motivation to success. By the end of this reflection I will share everything I've learned which had bring the graduate access attributes inside of me.

In my opinion, this course, UHMT1012 is a good course because it helps me with my soft skills such as communication. This can be related when I am able to communicate with my teammates which is my friends on our task together. Especially when we having an online class and no face to face with them. As we doing the task together, I also tried to make friends with them so that they feel more easier to work with. Not only that, communication skills also come in handy when there is presentation day. For example, the presentation for our group project and also group presentation. Seeing towards the end, I can say that my communication skills improved a lot during this semester.

Moving forward, UHMT1012 also help me to improve my thinking skills. What does this mean is I am able to convey my ideas towards the project I've worked on with my friends such as our project. Me and my friends shared their ideas on what should we do for our project before this semester ends. Some of them gave ideas on making a competition, making a charity work, and many more. But after all of that, we all agree on making a webinar about saving money. Thus "Saving Making Living" was born. After we got our project idea we all went to many things such as preparation for the day either its Google Meet, E-certificate and many more to make this project a success. Our speaker Yan Jia Mei also been a great help on making awareness towards why we should start saving money from now on. I would like to say thank you towards my group teammates because they helped a lot from the start until the end of the project.

After that, this course also introduced me to scholarship skills which are ability to seek and manage relevant information from a variety of sources. This can be proven with my individual assignment. This is my first time writing until 1500 words, which was so hard at first. The topic I've chosen was about "The Problems with Modern Society About Racism", which I had done my research on the internet about it. I also read the E-Book "So you want to talk about race" by Ijeoma Oluo. The book tells you how hard it has been for the people with different skin to live in a society that have less awareness about the lifestyle of the people with different skin. I'm grateful for the book because it open my eye about the situation that we live in now. Not only that, I did my search on the internet as well to help me with my assignment. After a few search and days went by, I am finally able to complete my assignment and turn in my assignment in Turnitin. Turnitin is a good website where you can check how much plagiarism in my assignment. Luckily mine was only 2%. But overall the skills that I've got really comes in handy when I am in awe.

Next, this course also taught me about leadership and have more teamworking skills. Based on what I've learned, a leader is someone who leads a group of people to a certain goal whereas teamworking skills is the ability for a group of people to work together to complete a certain goal. I want to talk about leadership qualities that I achieved during this semester which is for every time that we had groupwork. During this learning at home situation, its really hard to keep track about what our groupmates doing either they are doing their work or not. So, my responsibility as a member, I will remind them about the work every day so that they would update me with their progress. With this also we will enhance our teamworking skills. I would say that doing work while not seeing face to face is really hard especially the work that involve a lot of work. But after all We've managed to pull through and did the impossible. Other leadership quality is having to trust your groupmate and listen to what they have in mind. This is important so that our work goes smoothly without any hitch and also improve the quality of our work.

I would say, that this is hardest part of getting ready, which is getting able to adapt with any situation. Adapting with something new is no easy task for anyone. It would take them days, months, years, maybe never. Luckily for me I am just a little bit shy but still able to communicate. I was really happy on getting into UTM, but it was really sad that Covid-19 hits our country making it unable for anyone to go anywhere, especially to university, so we had to stay at home. What's making it even harder that I couldn't see my classmates so there is really big gap with us communicating at first. But it wouldn't be long until we solved our problem, after getting all the people into Whatsapp group we communicate with each other. I was also trying to find some friends, which I did when I invite them into a Discord server. What is discord? Discord is an app where you can communicate your friends via chat or voice chat, can even share your screen any many more. I used this medium to talk a lot with my coursemate. Communication isn't the only thing I've had to adapt, thus there is one more thing is the lifestyle of being a university student. This is the first time I've been introduced to many workloads such as assignment, quizzes, test and many more. But like always, I manage to pull through because I am able to adapt with it.

Lastly, I would say the interesting skill that I've got is enterprising skills. Why is this unique is because you are able to experience on how does entrepreneur thinks on how what he would create or do to get his business going. My group had done a smart watch that can tell your health status. Why did we do a smart watch and why is it different from the other smart watch. This was the question that was asked towards us. I can say the reason we doing a smart watch is we want to target every age either they are young or old to use our watch and to take care of their health especially with this pandemic, we want to avoid other diseases to get through our body. Not just that, what is different with this watch is our software. It came with body health checkup, which reminds you when is your next checkup, how much calories that you need to eat today, water intake, and much more. Overall, it was really fun doing this little entrepreneurship as it let us to gain some knowledge on how it works out there.

For last and for all, I would like to thank you Dr. Marlina for letting me to take a chance on gaining the graduate attributes that can help us in the future. Her class had been interesting because she tried her best not to make the online class boring with the quizzes, videos, and also infographics to teach us more about the graduate success attributes. Here also I want to thanks my groupmates for being there for me and trusting me until the end. They are really creative people where they have their own special abilities that makes the groupwork much easier. Last but not least, my outmost thank you goes towards my parents that have been supporting me at home with providing me the basic necessity that a human. They are able to understand my situation with me learning at home and able to give me anything that I ask. In conclusion of my reflection of this course UHMT1012, I could say that I've had achieved the goal of this class where I am able to grasp all the soft skills and technical skills that had been offered here in UTM. I would want to end this reflection with a quote from an anime, "Life is not a game of luck. If you want to win, work hard." – Sora, No Game No Life. What this means is we should never wait for the opportunity to comes to us, rather we should be the one who search for the possibility to achieve success. Thank you.
